In the center you will have an artillery option And on the right, there will be some kind of Heavy Tank Destroyer.. When attacking with tanks, it is not necessary to get close to the enemy when using HE shells (HE shells do the same damage at any range), because the only benefit you gain by closing the distance is increased accuracy.

Secondly, it is also much faster than a Sherman, allowing it to get into position to fire, or retreat to cover while it reloads.. The units purchased, as always, are up to you Capturing the Final FlagIf you've managed to make it this far, and survived the Heavy Tank rush, then the game should be more or less over by now.. HMGThe HMGs of each nation all operate so similarly that the differences between each gun are almost insignificant.. This choice will depend greatly upon which units you have remaining on the field.. However, Infantry Squads come armed with a variety of weapons that can be used at both close and long ranges, as well as a medic, and plenty of types of grenades that can be put to good use.

Armed with 4 50 cal machine guns, the Maxxon doesn't have the penetrating power of other naton's AA guns, but it has a higher rate of fire than most, and can still can go through light vehicles and cover.

For the Allied factions, the M3A1 comes armed with the very lethal 50 cal HMG, which can even take out lightly armored vehicles, but the real source of AT is the 2 AT rocket soldiers that come with the squad, allowing them to defeat all but the heaviest armor from close to mid range.. After this section will come the detailed country reviews, where i highlight certain units, and explain how each country's units differ from the norm, and what part of the game they perform best at.. If you're having trouble knocking out those AT guns, and neither of the above methods have worked out for you so far, you may want to consider bringing in some artillery.. If you plan on sneaking up on these guys, you will either need luck, skill, or lots and lots of smoke.. While not always equipped with the best gun, it doesn't matter as much since they can still shrug off enemy fire, close the distance, and destroy most targets with relative ease.. Remember how much we like StG44s and MG42s? Well that's pretty much what this unit is made of.. A special note must be made of the Nebelwerfer at this point Unlike most multiple fire rocket artillery, the Nebelwerfer's rockets are large enough to damage the top armor of many tanks, including the Jumbo.. This is the moment where you will see multiple Churchills or King Tiger tanks rush your positions.
